THE MUSEUM LOOKS TO THE FUTURE

The photograph on the cover of this issue is a tender reminder of the ultimate value the Museum provides our region. That the experience of the past serves to inspire growth of perception and knowledge is shown by the father's gentle instruction of his son about the tapestry before them. Our Museum, its collections, and its programs are dedicated to serving man's imagination, creativity, values, and culture.

Otto Wittmann, who retired as Director of this Museum in January, 1977, has set high standards for the growth of the Museum's art and music educational programs, art collections and galleries. His dedication and impeccable taste, recognized throughout the museum profession, remain an inspiration to his highly skilled professional staff. He has created a standard of quality for this Museum that will endure for generations to come.

In recognition of his thirty years of service to this Museum, the Board elected him Director Emeritus, a Vice President; as well as Advisor on Art.

We are extremely fortunate in the choice of our new Director, Roger Mandle, who, in the three years that he has been with the Museum, has demonstrated energy, ideas and leadership which promise to be equal to that of his predecessor, insuring continued standards of excellence for our Museum. Under his farsighted leadership, the Museum will certainly continue toward new heights of service to the community through well planned and executed education programs, through continued acquisitions of superb works of art, and through the development of the Museum's staff and financial resources. Roger Mandle's first annual report discusses the year's activities, and the Museum's goals for the coming decade. The priorities which he lists for the future were devised at his urging, but they represent an opinion shared enthusiastically by those staff, Board and volunteers who helped create them.

A time of transition is also a time of reconfirmation and rededication. The support which the community invests in the Museum today will guarantee that it can reach its goals in the future. For the enduring cultural life of our region, no investment is better made. How gratifying for us all that we can share in this opportunity.

A YEAR OF GROWTH AND PLANNING

The fall of 1976 marked the completion of a year-long celebration heralding the Museum's 75th anniversary. The year featured many special events commemorating this important occasion. The anniversary year also marked the opening of the Glass Study Room and completion of the Museum's new Research Center, incorporating the Glass Study Room, Print Study Room and the Museum Library. The Samuel H. Kress Foundation awarded the Museum a two year grant to create programs for the public and research opportunities for scholars in the Research Center.

Three important publications were presented: the scholarly catalogue of the Museum's collection of European paintings; a Corpus Vasorum Antiquorum, documenting and illustrating the Museum's outstanding collection of Greek vases; and a new edition of the Guide to the Collections, expanded to cover many of the major works of art acquired in recent years.

The anniversary year came to a fitting close with Treasures for Toledo, an exhibition presenting all major works of art acquired by the Museum over the last ten years. A special double issue of the Museum News served as the catalogue for this exciting exhibition.

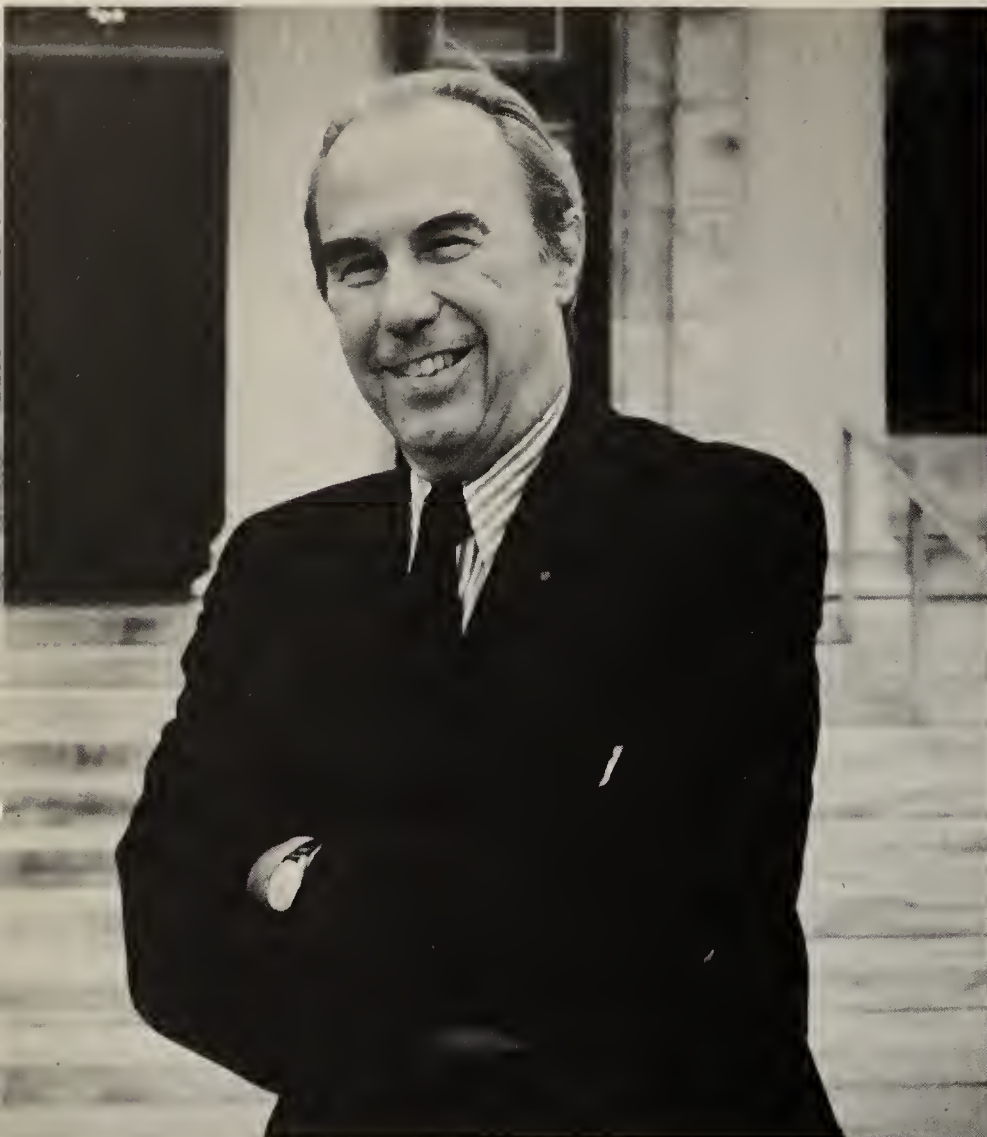

January 1, 1977 brought the retirement of Otto Wittmann as Director, after 30 years of distinguished service to the Museum. Mr. Wittmann is respected among his colleagues as the dean of his profession, and is beloved by his staff and community. His work has become a standard by which others will measure themselves and their museums. In the 30 years Mr. Wittmann has been associated with the Toledo Museum, he has attracted international acclaim for his significant acquisitions of works of art. The Museum's collections have tripled in size during his tenure. Art News Magazine, April, 1977, commented that, "Toledo's acquisitions are clearly the products of a consistently discriminating connoisseurship."

Mr. Wittmann created a vigorous international program of special exhibitions, most recently, the highly regarded Age of Louis XV: French Painting 1710-1774. He is also credited with developing the largest art museum educational program in the United States which innovated many new concepts in art and music education. Under his leadership, the Glass Crafts Movement began, subsequently resulting in a special Glass Crafts building for the teaching of glass working.

Under his direction, Museum attendance records soared; exhibition space was increased by approximately 80 per cent. Such special areas as the Art in Glass Gallery, Glass Study Room, Print Study Room, the Little Theater, the William E. Levis Exhibition gallery, the Grove Place entrance and the Grove Place parking lot have all been established under his directorship with funds provided by many generous donors interested in the Museum's long range plans for Museum growth and service to the public. Mr. Wittmann's high standards were an inspiration to all who came in contact with him. That the Museum has advanced to its pre-eminent position is lasting testimony to his ability to get things done.

In January the Museum presented an unusually interesting exhibition Toledo Collects American Decorative Arts. Organized by Roger Berkowitz, Curator of Decorative Arts, the exhibition included examples of American furniture, ceramics, pewter, silver, primitive paintings, clocks and samplers, all owned by Toledo area families. Mr. Berkowitz created one of our Museum's most handsome temporary installations for the exhibition.

With the cooperation of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation, Robert Phillips, Curator of Contemporary Art, organized an exhibition of their corporate collection which was held at the Museum in March, showing the fine contemporary paintings and graphics selected from their collection. The second exhibition of their collection, the show demonstrated its growth in scope and quality in the ten years since the collection was begun.

The 59th Annual Toledo Area Artists exhibition was held in May, followed by an exhibition of graphics by Edvard Munch, the Norwegian artist known as a progenator of European Expressionism.

The Museum staff has spent considerable time planning for the important international exhibition Silver For the Gods: 800 Years of Greek and Roman Silver, which will open at the Museum in the fall of 1977. Organized by Kurt Luckner, Curator of Ancient Art, this outstanding exhibition will include an impressive array of over 150 objects from the 6th century B.C. to the 4th century A.D. assembled from major museums and private collections in Europe and America. Supported by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, the exhibition will also be shown at the William Rockhill Nelson Gallery in Kansas City and at the Kimbell Art Museum in Fort Worth.

During the summer months, with the aid of a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Museum's French Galleries were redecorated and reinstalled. Designed and executed by Roger Berkowitz, Curator of Decorative Arts, the handsome galleries are now organized in a more chronological order, and are supplemented by new educational materials.

In order to keep the sixty-year old Museum building an efficient and beautiful setting for learning about the arts, constant attention to repairs and renovations must be given. Major repairs to the Museum roof and the electrical system were accomplished during the summer months. New offices for the Curatorial staff and renovation of the Director's office and General office were completed, creating a more pleasant and convenient atmosphere for the staff.

Construction of a new Museum Sales Shop has begun near the Grove Place Entrance. Expanded offerings of art books, reproductions, and cards will offer more educational materials. A new, more efficient information system is currently being designed for the Museum's main entrance hall, along with comfortable seating, lighting, plantings and sculpture.

Attendance at the many Museum activities this past year was approximately 350,000. Membership reached an all-time high of over 8000 members; over 400 families, foundations and corporations are now members of the President's Council.

Nearly 130,000 children visited the Museum for free Saturday classes, guided tours, films, special children's exhibitions and events. During the public schools' financial plight, the Museum has been supporting classroom teachers' efforts to include the Museum in daily curriculum, with inservice programs and resource materials. Bus Funds generated from Museum Members' contributions have kept the possibilities open for thousands of children to visit the Museum during the school crisis.

Special weekend programs, designed to involve the whole family, attracted many thousands to the Museum several times during the year for memorable outings. These special events are forming the core of regular weekend offerings planned for the future.

this year. Nearly 900 adults enrolled in classes in the 1976-77 fiscal year. Experimental art appreciation courses taught to employees at lunchtimes and after hours in local corporate headquarters proved so successful that a new audience has been found, and the courses are being expanded for the coming year.

Film series, lectures, concerts and events attracted additional repeat adult attendance. For the first time in a decade, both the Peristyle and Great Gallery concert series had sellout seasons. Programs of great international talent and the hard work of a volunteer concert promotion committee were part of the success.

The Museum's art classes bring fun and satisfaction to many.

The Museum's unique affiliation with the University of Toledo continued to advance. The University made possible a new full-time art historian's position, designed to increase courses at the Museum toward a major in that field. Badly needed new equipment has been acquired for instructional use, and additional education office staff has been authorized, all stimulated by growing enrollments. An interdisciplinary summer institute co-sponsored with the University attracted 40 students as part of an expanding summer educational program at the Museum. The University administration continues to support growth of the Museum's instructional potential for students at all levels.

This growth is especially significant and confirms the quality of the Museum's programs of education, exhibitions, renovations and expansion. The greatest challenge the Museum and the community face in the coming decades will be to maintain the financial viability supporting the momentum of growth.

In considering this challenge, the Museum staff and Trustees have completed a long-range program and projection of specific financial requirements for the next decade. Five major goals are listed below which should be accomplished in the next decade. Each goal relates to the other; the overall plan provides a balanced approach to the Museum's future needs.

1. The Museum's world renowned collections

The Museum's outstanding collections form the basis for every program offered by the Museum. A primary responsibility continues to be seeking works of art of the highest possible quality which will amplify the collections and will continue the unique balance of all areas of the collections. Preservation and maintenance of the collections will also be of great importance.

2. New Education Programs

The Museum hopes to continue its national leadership in the development of curriculum-related art and music programs for elementary and secondary schools. But the Museum also recognizes the challenges which lie ahead for public education and is adapting its traditional programs to meet new school problems and opportunities.

The Museum is working on the creation of more opportunities for local University involvement with the visual arts. From liberal arts students to aspiring teachers and artists, to vocational specialists like graphic artists and designers, the Museum is widening available courses and options for majors. Through the University of Toledo and other area colleges and universities, the Museum will continue to serve many thousands of students in the coming decade.

A major expansion in adult continuing education and recreational art programs is being planned, both at the Museum and at regional "off campus" locations. Increasing leisure time for Toledo area families has created new demands for day-time weekend and evening programs for all ages. Plans are underway to create more family-oriented activities at the Museum.

3. Maintenance of Museum Building and Grounds

The Museum's beautifully maintained facilities which greatly enhance the visitor's appreciation of the works of art are costly to maintain, but essential. The Museum's sixty year old building is in need of major repair. A ten-year phased program of renovation and replacement has been initiated, and it is hoped to establish a reserve fund to provide for essential maintenance during this period and beyond.

4. Support for Capital Improvements

Long range plans include enlarging and refreshing gallery spaces, refurbishing and developing new education facilities, and endowing curatorial chairs and education programs. New funds will be needed in the future for each of these vital projects.

5. Maintain a Balanced Budget

Through continued sound fiscal management, a balanced growth of programs and staff and accelerated annual endowment support, the Museum anticipates that it will meet the challenges of the next decade.

Because of inflation alone, Museum expenditures by 1986-87 are projected to exceed income by as much as $300,000 annually. Museum endowments must be increased substantially during the next decade to provide additional income. Rather than operate on a capital-involving deficit, the Museum would need to cut back its renowned services to maintain as nearly balanced a budget as possible.

By adding $100,000 per year to each previous year's endowment goal, the Museum will meet the obligations of the 1980's.

During this year of transition from Otto Wittmann's 18-year leadership to the coming years of the Museum's continued growth, all have come to know his friendship and support. It is a measure of his greatness that he has so freely and lovingly released his grasp on the role he held with such distinction for so long. Everyone is grateful for his continued availability for counsel.

Your Museum is one of the few in the nation to sponsor pre-school children's art classes, serving as a laboratory for student teachers.

As the Museum looks to the future, the hard work, good judgement, and uncommon loyalty of the staff and volunteers are certainly among its greatest assets. That all have reached an enthusiastic consensus about the Museum's immediate and long range goals is a sign that we shall not fail to achieve them. A rich inheritance is a substantial responsibility—to enhance the future cultural life of our region, we shall not only draw on the past, but attempt to invest it with the ideas and energies available to us now which may provide useful history for the time to come.

Roger Mandle, Director

ENDOWMENT DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE

The Endowment Development Committee is one of the Museum's most important and active supporting groups. This Committee is charged with aiding the Museum's future growth by developing increased support for the Museum's endowment funds.

Mr. William H. Price II, Co-Chairman, and his committee were successful in obtaining 82 new members for the President's Council during the past fiscal year, bringing the total to 393.

Mr. Lawrence G. Bell, Co-Chairman, has been responsible for increasing major contributions to the Museum. He has begun a program to contact local and national foundations and major corporations for funding of special projects and endowment support.

Mr. John D. Anderson, Co-Chairman, initiated the Museum's 10-year endowment development plan, which projects the Museum's financial needs for the next decade to maintain the strength and quality of its programs. Support and interest is being encouraged by the Endowment Development Committee for these plans.

ART MUSEUM AIDES

The Art Museum Aides, founded in 1957 is a group of volunteer women who, for nearly 20 years, have managed the Annual Membership Drive for the Museum. Chairman of the Art Museum Aides for 1976-1977 was Mrs. Spencer D. Stone; Co-Chairman; Mrs. James F. White, Jr.

Under the direction of Mrs. Edward E. Hiett, Chairman, and Mrs. Alonzo H. Poll, Assistant Chairman, the Museum Aides conducted a most successful membership campaign. Forty Aides, acting again as captains of volunteer teams, obtained 1227 new members which pushed the membership roster to an all-time high of over 8000 members.

These ambitious volunteers also manage the Museum's Collectors Corner, the art sales and rental gallery featuring the work of area artists.

The Aides serve as hostesses at Museum functions and are responsible for the care of the beautiful plants enhancing the Museum's galleries.

The Museum Docents lectured in the galleries to over 40,000 adults and children this year.

ART MUSEUM DOCENTS

In their thirtieth year, the Art Museum Docents continue to be enthusiastic ambassadors for the understanding and enjoyment of art and music to over 40,000 adults and young people who visit the Museum. Each tour a Museum Docent gives requires a careful blend of creativity, resourcefulness and study of art or music.

This year the Docents' efforts to expand their own knowledge have included sending a representative to the Volunteer Committees of Art Museums meeting in Minneapolis; a workshop on children's aesthetic development given by Dr. Howard Gardner of Harvard University; and a visit to the Inter-museum Conservation Laboratory and Allen Memorial Art Museum at Oberlin College.

Eight new candidates have been accepted as Museum Docents and will be trained during the coming year. In addition, one veteran Music Docent will train as an Art Docent.
